Score 62.9

Confidence 77 (High)

The image would benefit from sharper focus and more even lighting—consider adjusting your aperture or using a reflector to soften highlights.

Style Fashion (0.85)

This three-quarter shot presents a clean, minimalist aesthetic, with a well-chosen background that keeps attention on the model. The contrast is striking, giving the image a bold, editorial feel.

However, the softness in focus slightly detracts from the overall impact, making the image feel less polished. Compared to future shots, refining technical precision here will elevate the entire set.

Coach Feedback

- Work on improving overall sharpness—current images lack clarity and crispness.
- Experiment with lighting setups to reduce highlight dominance and balance exposure.
- Refine posing to create more dynamic energy in three-quarter shots.
- Adjust camera distance or lens choice to enhance subject prominence within the frame.
- Incorporate subtle facial expressions to add emotion and depth to the image.

Next step: Focus on achieving sharper image capture through better focus control and camera stability.

What to Keep

- Maintain strong contrast levels that give the image visual impact.
- Continue using clean, distraction-free backgrounds that highlight the subject.
- Keep exploring three-quarter poses, as they provide a flattering angle.

Reshoot Checklist

- Test different lighting angles to reduce overexposed highlights on the face.
- Revisit framing to ensure the model is more centrally balanced in the composition.
- Use a tripod or faster shutter speed to eliminate motion blur and increase sharpness.
- Incorporate subtle hair styling to add texture and dimension without distraction.
- Try wardrobe with varied textures or layers to introduce visual interest and depth.
